GeroTestbed model for age technologies

We Research

User-centred development ensures usability for older people. Specific needs must be considered during testing.

The IKI-project developed the GeroTestbed-model to support technology companies. It offers tools for safe product design. The model enables older people to participate in development.

More on this topic

samk

roboAI